Downer: Alright. Welcome back. Many of you probably know that Mike Tyson, former heavyweight champion, is in town and he met up with Mayor Rob Ford. Well, he joins us right now with his promoter, Alex. Thanks for joining us, both of you. I'll start with yourself. Uh, many are wondering how did that happen, this meeting with the Mayor?

Tyson: I have no idea.

Choko: It's my fault again. [laughs] No. At the end of the day, he is the mayor of the city. Mike Tyson is here to promote the first ever performance in Canada and, when I had Sugar Ray Leonard come to Montreal to launch the book, we went to the mayor's office. We're here. It's an habit. We go see the mayor.

Tyson: And this is. This is the first time probably in the history of Toronto where the mayor is bigger than the whole, the whole city.

Choko: [laughs]

Tyson: Ya know. He's a bigger celebrity than anybody in the city. Everybody wants to see the mayor. And, uh, he's a really, uh, dynamic character.

Downer: Right. So did you, you read up on him? You sort of been following?

Tyson: No. I didn't read up on him. I watched him on television.

Downer: Right.

Tyson: I mean I.

Choko: In the States.

Tyson: In the States and you know, he's a big, he's a big hit in the States. A big hit.

Downer: Now some of your critics would say, you know, there's a race for mayor. We know you're a convicted rapist, this could hurt his campaign. How would you respond to that?

Tyson: Hey, uh, I don't know who said that. You're the only one I heard say that. You know what I mean? And I don't have no comment to that, you know, because it's negative and you're being negative. And I, I, I met, I met the mayor.

Downer: Yeah. Right.

Tyson: And there's nothin' they can do about it.

Choko: We actually had a really good time. We, we, we talked about George Chuvalo who's a legend in your city. A great man with whom Mike spent quite a bit of time yesterday talking about his life, highs and lows.

Tyson: You know, it's, it's so interesting cause you come across like a nice guy but you're really a piece of shit with that comment.

Downer: Hey. Come on. Come on. That's.

Tyson: No that was a piece of. So fuck you. That was a piece of shit.

Downer: You know we're on. We're doing, we're doing live TV.

Tyson: Hey, I don't care. What are you gonna do about it?

Downer: Alright. You gotta, you gotta a show that you're doing tonight.

Choko: We are.

Downer: You know a lot of people are gonna be there.

Choko: We are. Where it comes raw and it's the real truth. It's the truth.

Downer: Yeah. A lot of people will be there to see your show. Just tell us a bit about it.

Tyson: Um, it's a, you know, it speaks for itself. Everyone saw the show.

Choko: Alright. It's a Broadway production. It went to Vegas. It went to actually twenty-eight cities in the United-States. And we're really, really proud to bring it here. And we're actually going to Monaco on October 9th. We're gonna be in Monte Carlo.

Downer: Right. Is it nerve-wracking for you to do something like this or is it more nerve, nervous for you to box? How does it compare?

Tyson: I don't know, um, it's more nerve-wracking for me here talking to a rat piece of shit like you.

Downer: Ah come on, Mike.

Tyson: Ya know, because you're a piece of shit.

Downer: Alright.

Tyson: You really didn't have to [inaudible]. You're a piece of shit.

Downer: We're gonna. We're gonna wrap-up this interview. Thank you. Thank you for coming in.

Tyson: Oh, fuck you
